Acupuncture Facial Rejuvenation

Acupuncture facial rejuvenation is one of less well known applications of Traditional Chinese Medicine in the West. However, it has been widely used in China for many years to prevent the onset of wrinkles and facial lines.

The principle of facial rejuvenation acupuncture is using the Traditional Chinese Medicine concepts - it rebalances the body's motivating energy (Qi). As we mature, the quantity of Qi and blood in the skin and underlying facial muscles slowly begin to decrease, causing a loss of nourishment, support and moisture. The face having a high number of acupuncture points, specific areas of the face can be targeted. This will increase the flow of blood and energy through the skin in that area, thereby hydrating, plumping up and boosting the skin supply of nutrients and oxygen, thus decreasing the appearance of wrinkles and blemishes. The overall result gives you a more youthful appearance.

While not a replacement for surgery, facial rejuvenation acupuncture is an excellent alternative: far less costly, not painful at all, SAFE, no bad side-effects or risk of disfigurement. In addition, the recipient's health generally improves alongside the reduction of his/her wrinkles.

Our signature programs consist of more than 12 procedures and takes about 90 minutes or more. The intensity of the treatment will make the instant difference after even one session. Ideally a minimum of 6 weekly treatments, depending on age and skin condition, are required followed by regular monthly programs for top ups..
